

TERUZZI

TUSCANY, ITALY

Past, present and future come together at Teruzzi – a state-of-the-art winery dedicated to exploring the most innovative solutions to produce high quality wines while respecting the local heritage and ancient history of Tuscany's great winemaking tradition. Teruzzi epitomizes the vision of the Moretti family – a commitment to advancing estates with a strong place of origin, heritage, nobility and personality, like that of San Gimignano - a true medieval jewel, and its most precious resource -Vernaccia. The estate stretches over 180 hectares – 94 under vine, of which, 60 hectares are Vernaccia vines. The Teruzzi properties benefit from a variety of soils, altitudes, gradients and microclimates influenced by their close proximity to the Tyrrhenian sea.

- In 1966, Vernaccia di San Gimignano was the first Italian wine to be granted DOC status. Vernaccia was essential to mark the wine's origin from this terroir. Today it is the sole variety in Teruzzi's Isola Bianca wine. Terre di Tufi has always been credited as being one of the first White Supertuscans in history. Based on Vernaccia it is supplemented with another prominent indigenous variety – Trebbiano Toscano and the international varieties Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc.
- Teruzzi owns the largest expanse in Tuscany planted with Vernaccia. The estate stretches over 180 hectares – 94 under vines, of which, 60 hectares are under Vernaccia vines from a variety of soils, altitudes, gradients and microclimates. The Moretti family, owners of Teruzzi since 2016, keep sustainability at its core – including no weed killers, no fertilizers, and a reduction in the use of crop protection agents.
- The logo and the labels pay homage to the Middle Ages, the time of peak development of a thriving San Gimignano. San Gimignano was considered the Manhattan of the Middle Ages with 72 towers at its peak and only 14 remaining now. Fittingly, the "T" in Teruzzi is the fountain of life; coupled with the sun and the moon, suggesting the passing of time.
