Long Dai

"Our family have been winemakers at Lafite for 150 years so it is in our culture to be patient and take our time to make sure we release a wine we are proud of. This vintage of Long Dai is the first chapter of a very long story as winemakers in China." – Saskia de Rothschild

The choice for the name Long Dai came from the family's wish to find an identity that could show how this wine is the perfect balance between nature, and the care of men and women who have helped it reveal its best potential. It was also important to find a name that showed tribute to Shandong's exceptional local history. Inspired by the Taishan sacred mountain in Shandong, Long Dai represents an idealized mountain that rose through the power of nature and was then carefully chiseled by human hands. Our choice of name describes what we do as winemakers: try to perfect the raw materials provided by nature.

The wine estate developed by the Domaines Barons de Rothschild (Lafite) can now count on 25 hectares of vines in full production (among 30 planted). "One thing we now know is the more the vines have aged, the better the wines we have produced, so we are excited to keep learning from this terroir over the years to come" explains Olivier Trégoat, Director of DBR (Lafite) international estates.

LONG DAI

Qiu Shan Valley (Shandong Province), China

- 50% Cabernet Sauvignon, 25% Marselan, 25% Cabernet Franc
- The 30 hectares of vineyards are spread across 360 terraces as per the traditional agriculture in the region; This has enabled preservation of the landscape and the soil structure
- The nose is marked by black fruits like blackberry and blueberry, and the Marselan grape variety brings in subtle hints of sweet spice and violet
- The attack is fresh and lively, on the palate; the wine shows a nice amplitude and elegant tannins

LAFITE

10 years ago,
the first vines were planted.
A journey began,
originating 150 years
before that in Chateau Lafite.
Year after year,
Grain in ear, summer solstice,
minor heat. The 24 solar terms.
Year after year,
Maturation and balance,
boldness and patience.
Year after year,
Observation and dedication
from harvest to bottling.
And finally,
10 years after that first day,
The beginning of a never-ending story.

Long Dai.
Disciples of nature.
