This is really delicious with berries, cherries, crushed stones, slate and dried rosemary. Subtle and flavorful at the same time. Medium tannins that are polished and pretty. Spices at the end. Grenache, as you may know already. Drink or hold. -J.S.

Floral with a hint of spicy oak and Mediterranean herbs, this shows seriously succulent and juicy blackcurrant and raspberry fruit. Medium-bodied with an underpinning of subtle oak rounding out the tannins, it's cut through by a knifeblade of elegantly refreshing acidity. A well-made wine that recalls Gigondas. -A.R.
