

JEAN-LUC COLOMBO

CORNAS "LES RUCHETS" 2005

Rhône Valley, France

93

POINTS

Wine Spectator

MARCH 2008

Ripe, with a touch of flashy toast helping to frame the black currant, boysenberry and fig fruit, which is in turn pushed by cassis bush and olive notes. Really stretches out on the finish. — J.M.

91

POINTS

Robert Parker
eRobertParker.com

MARCH 2016

The 2005 Cornas Les Ruchets is a youthful... Cornas that gives up lots of currants, figs, licorice and gamy meats in its medium-bodied, focused, classic style. — J.D.

91

POINTS

WINE ENTHUSIAST MAGAZINE

APRIL 2010

The tannins dominate the mouth right now, but the black olive and peppered-meat nuances win out in the end, adding depth to tarry, leathery notes and plummy fruit. — J.C.

91

POINTS

vinous

JANUARY 2008

Spicy red berries and cherry on the nose, with zesty minerals and cracked pepper adding energy. A nicely balanced midweight with fresh raspberry and bitter cherry flavors and a suave mineral undertone. Finishes with tangy grip and superb sappy persistence. — J.R.