POINTS

Wine Spectator

OCTOBER 2017

Plush in feel, with layers of dark fig, blueberry and blackberry reduction leading the way, inlaid with light charcoal and bay leaf accents that emerge steadily through the finish. Ends with a tug of tar. Best from 2020 through 2035. – J.M.

MAGAZINE

SEPTEMBER 2018

Pristine, primary black-plum and cherry aromas intensify on the palate of this wine, gaining richer tones of blueberry and raspberry preserve. It's a full-bodied, flush wine marked by hints of spice, earth and thyme, along with soft, feathery tannins. Crisp acidity lends balance to the finish. – A.I.

vinous

MARCH 2018

...Evokes ripe boysenberry, cherry liqueur, potpourri and olive, along with an exotic spice quality that builds with air. Displays impressive energy to the deep-pitched black and blue fruit and floral pastille flavors thanks to an undercurrent of minerality that builds in the glass. Finishes sweet and very long, leaving floral pastille and cola notes behind. – J.R.

Decanter

OCTOBER 2017

There is a robust oak influence here and a touch of volatile acidity, but then a generous savoury note and a beguiling whisper of sweetness at the back with a linear, seductive finish. Drinking from 2019 through 2027. – G.D., S.F., M.W.
